

Software SA geological know-how for Brazil

Micromine has continued its global expansion by announcing a partnership with BNA Consultoria e Sistemas (BNA) in Brazil. BNA is a Brazilian private company that was established in 2008 that develops geological engineering applications for the exploration and mineral sector.

Micromine founder, Graeme Tudor comments on the company's recent expansion into Brazil: "Micromine's global market share has increased substantially over the past couple of years. Partnering with BNA in Brazil is strategically important for Micromine and BNA, as well as our clients, who have been demanding this local presence for a number of years. BNA's strength and reputation make it an excellent partner for Micromine." As Micromine's newest authorised agent, BNA will support one of Micromine's primary mining and exploration solutions, Micromine, in Brazil.